Reflective questions

1. Reflecting on the process of thinking metaphorically, what did I discover about my own thinking style and sense-making approach around big or difficult concepts? Did I find it challenging or rewarding?

2. Did using new metaphors help me comprehend complex ideas better or see them from a different perspective?

3. How might I apply some of this thinking in my work or daily life where sensemaking is required? Where could I find a use for it - and what would it offer me?
